SOUTHERN NEWS.

Key West has captured a 700-pound green turtle.

The dimensions of the Columbia Phoenix have been curtailed for the summer months. Wilmington, N. C., has subscribed $95,000 for a cotton mill to be established in that city.

Kentucky publishes nine dailies, eighty-six weeklies, and sixteen monthlies—on hundred and eleven in all.

North Carolina claims to be the only State in the Union which produces every article enumerated in the census report of 1870.

The negroes have commenced "excusing" in Alabama, where several hundred arrived in Montgomery from Tuesday, from Selma and up the country.

Frank M. Paul, who was engaged in the newspaper business in Chattanooga at one time during the war, has become business manager of the Memphis Appeal Company.

The Montgomery Ledger is informed that the track of the M. & M. Railroad was washed away between Greenville and Georgiana by an immense water spout, which was the largest ever heard of. The track for some distance on either side of the spout was entirely washed away.

Nashville Union and American: "Although 25 feet under the water, the Chatapeake and Ohio Canal is now in full and successful operation. The spout was closed, sealed during low water, with a suction pipe leading thereto, and by this means the water now drawn from the spring is as cool and clear as could be desired."

The silver mine which the Meigs, Richardson and Bremerk of Louisville, own in Livingston county, Kentucky, is again being worked. From $60,000 to $70,000 has already been expended in the enterprise, and the prospects are now said to be most flattering. It is reported that $80,000 has been offered these gentlemen for a half interest in their mines, but was not accepted.

The following is a list of the number of miles of railroads complete in the Southern States:—

London, April 17.—Duckenfield, where the explosion occurred, is burning fiercely.

The morning journals generally approve this.

The Times points to the fact that the revenue of the coming year is estimated on an unprecedently liberal scale, and considers the proposed reduction of the debt as small in comparison.

London, April 17.—The Budget shows, including the Revenue, but not including the Ashante war, over one million pounds in excess. The estimates for next year show a surplus of five and a half millions in excess, and the prospects are now said to be most flattering. It is reported that $80,000 has been offered these gentlemen for a half interest in their mines, but was not accepted.

A LIFE INSURANCE VERDICT.

PHILADELPHIA, April 17.—The suit of David France and wife vs. the Insurance Company of Hartford, Connecticut, on a policy of $100,000, issued in 1868 on the life of Dr. France, brother of Dr. J. Michel of Montgomery, and Jerome Cochran and William A. Anderson, of Mobile, reported that yellow fever and dengue were distinct diseases, and that yellow fever was the cause of it was portable. Dr. Gaines attributed the success in the treatment of yellow fever in Mobile to the application of quinine at the beginning of the disease.

The Wilmington papers announce the death of ex-Governor Henry T. Clark, at his residence in Tarboro, on the 15th instant.

As Senator from the county of Edgecombe, he was a man of the highest honor, and a Governor of North Carolina in the beginning of those days that tried men's souls, he even went up to the full measure of his power. His honor salary than this can no man have. North Carolina had cause to be proud of her son.

BREVITIES.

Lazy husbands are known out West as stow-watches.

The London Echo says: Mr. Ralph Waldo Emerson has been nominated for the office of Lord Rector of the University of Cambridge.

Four years ago General Stanton, Governor of California, planted two large groves of trees covering in all about 160 acres and to-day he is the owner of 180,000 trees, big and little, some of them measuring fifty feet in height and a foot in diameter.

A. T. Stewart is a connoisseur in sherry wine, which is his strong point in vintage. He cares very little for other wines, but when he gives a dinner party the table is graced by some of the stock of sherry for which he paid $30,000 some years ago, purchased from the vaults of the old Carolean House in Broadway.

When Sir Walter Scott and his wife were walking out together, a fox was seen in a field and they stopped in a meadow. "Ah," said Sir Walter, "it is no wonder that poets, from the earliest ages, have made the lamb emblem of peace and innocence." "They are indeed, delightful animals," answered her ladyship, "especially with mint sauce."

The Chicago Tribune makes out the following bill as the cost to the people of the United States every year:

Getting born.....	$30,000,000
Getting married.....	250,000,000
Getting buried.....	73,839,450
Total.....	$43,839,450

Three more American ladies are about to be married in Europe to noblemen—Misses Jerome, Forbes and Wickenshaw; the first two of New York and the last of Philadelphia. They are to be married at the same time for these forthcoming events, and resident Brother Jonathan in Paris, their wives and daughters are, as the Parisians say, on the gu'v'n'. So the weddings will take place at the American Legation in Paris.

The New York Cremation Society has tried its pretence hand already. One of its members was polite enough to die within a day or two after he joined the fire worshipers. His body was put upright in a fire-proof receptacle, through which intensely-heated air was passed, and the ashes of his son in a neat little urn on the parlor mantel piece.

It is stated there are half a hundred thousand children attending the public schools in the United States, and that a charge of books on a year costs the sum of two millions of dollars. This is mainly for the benefit of book publishers. This is a great evil that should be abated. If the States have the power to provide for the education of children, and compel their attendance at school, if necessary, they certainly have the power to provide uniform books.

The New York World, speaking of cremation, gives the following instance of the neatness of the operation: "Your Executive master was practically exemplified. On one of the mysterious shelves was a bottle marked No. 19, containing 32 pounds of fertilizing material, the gross result of an Italian gentleman, who had evidently never been in such reduced circumstances before. The entire cost of putting him in a glass case was just under two dollars. Your police, Esq., money. This of itself is an item of sufficient importance to carry conviction to any sane man. It only takes three hours and about half a cord of wood to put a million into a very small glass bottle. The only difficulty to apprehend is the inevitable of family jars. However after death it will be always possible to put a sto per se, which, during life, is sometimes difficult."

Diversified Agriculture.

Farmers in this county have commenced planting cotton. Cora in many sections has come up and presents a good appearance. The farmers have at last woken to their senses and the day is not far distant when the cotton will be known in a cotton country. The new crop will be unknown in a cotton country, if they will only keep the mode of farming that has been adopted by many of this spring.—Columbus Enterprise.

THE CONSTITUTION has been among the journals that have persistently advocated a system of diversified agriculture in Georgia. It has urged this policy from general views of public policy. It can recall a number of times when it has been pressed for speaking on a subject upon which it was charged to be not practically posted.

It is the duty of a journal and within its scope to discuss all subjects of public interest. And often very great reforms are accomplished by the press by persistence in agitating unpopular but really correct ideas.

The whole proclivity of the farmers in the cotton States since the war has been to ignore everything but cotton. The press generally has urged diversified production. The cotton has been a peculiar one. It has been a battle of the theorists against the practical professors.

It looks as if the theorist was about to prove his side and win the victory. The exclusive culture of cotton has been tried until ample seemed to be too impulsive and imprudent. Not from the arguments of the press, but through their own experience of results, the farmers are beginning, as in Newton county, as stated in the above paragraph, to diversify their agriculture and to subordinate cotton to provisions.

From all parts of Georgia come similar accounts, and we are glad to chronicle the general change of farming policy. We look for better times in consequence.

The railroad tracks between High Point and Greensboro, the third of the Atlantic and south of Charlotte, are five fields wide—a mile of flat, a mile and a half, and a mile of flat. The railroads will run along the river of the Atlantic, Congress will further oblige the currency by the act of inflation and the government to fix a sum for a return to specific payments.—Montgomery Advertiser.

And so the Advertiser told us this morning that over sixty manufacturers of one Western State, representing a labor force of ten thousand workmen, have petitioned Congress for a bill of inquiry.

Not much "demand of speculators" and "ignorance of the laws of finance" in such a body of manufacturing men as this.

The Avalanche will have to try again. It is easy enough to raise the cry of "speculators" to render expansion difficult, but it may as well be recognized that a large body of honest, practical, thinking, interested, wealthy business men of the country think that a reasonable enlargement of the volume of currency is a measure of individual benefit and national pecuniarity.

A bill is now under consideration in the Virginia Legislature, which authorizes the Danville road to alter its gauge in any way that the company may deem necessary and proper to secure the most efficient, useful and economical operation of its line.

GEORGIA LIBERTY.

SECOND SPECIAL ABOUT THE FOUR

NEGROES LIVING AT THOMAS

VILLE, GEORGIA—ADD-

YACHTS AND SHIPS AT ATLANTA

LARS.

A STRICTLY NEUTRAL POLICY.

RAVENSBURG THREE OF THE NEGROES ASSERT

INNOCENCE.

(TRANSLATED FROM THE GERMAN OF ADOLPH STEIN.

(CONCLUDED.)

As the boat was again hurried back, nearly all the men were overwhelmed. Franz almost fainted and trembling. Marie threw arms about him, and raising her pleading eyes to his face, she cried: "My father is innocent! He has been beaten by Franz!"

Franz convinced by Marie's earnest look, and were dashed his car into the water, and thrust his companions aside. Once more his grandmother raised her voice, but he listened only to Marie. Again the excited men cried: "Over with the murderer!" and the tumult increased. The negroes did not stand aside, but the old man, n' longe, believing him guilty, stepped stone in the stern of the boat, and saw nothing of what was taking place.

His limbs tottered, his eyes were fixed on the clock, in a dull blank stare, and he muttered: "If we must all perish, then if we escape I shall have rest."

Marie still tries to protect her father. She could do nothing but stretch out her arms before him in agonized pleading to one and another. Lenhardt turned to his child alone for support, and the old man, leaning on the young boy who stood by his side, Marie dashed those exasperated men to touch her, bravely stood by her father; and now, as the boat was tossing helplessly among the breakers, and the tempest raged with still greater violence, two of the men, deaf to Marie's heart-rending entreaties, seized Lenhardt and cast him overboard. The young man clung with her strength to her father, while she cried: "I will not leave him; I will die with him!" At that moment, when in spite of Franz's desperate efforts to prevent it, both had been dragged to the edge of the boat, the old man turned one last look toward Sept. That time Marie saw that look, and a single lightning flash of lightning.

THREE ASSESS INNOCENCE.

After the devotional services were over, three men, Walker, Burke and McCormick, the murderers of Mr. Hall, spoke, declaring themselves to be innocent of the dreadful crime with which they were charged, but asserting that they were willing and ready which had convicted them.

MISCELLANEOUS

APPLETON'S AMERICAN CYCLOPEDIA.

New Revised Edition. Entirely rewritten by the ablest writers on every subject. Printed from new type, and illustrated with several thousand Engravings and Maps.

THE WORK originally published under the title of THE NEW AMERICAN CYCLOPEDIA, is completed in three volumes, and is now ready for distribution, and has attained in all parts of the United States, and the signal developments which have taken place in every branch of science, and art, and literature, and has been submitted to the most exact and thorough review, and to issue a new edition entitled THE AMERICAN CYCLOPEDIA.

Within the last ten years the progress of discovery in every department of knowledge has made a new work of reference an imperative want.

The present edition offers a work which has kept pace with the discoveries of science, and their fruitful application to the industrial and useful arts, and the conveniences and comforts of life, and which will be found to have revolutionized every particular. Great strides have been made in medical knowledge, and in the physical sciences, and in the practical arts, and in every branch of literature, and history, and in the progress of political and historical events.

The great political revolutions of the last decade, with the almost total re-writing of the laws of man, have brought into public view a multitude of new men whose names are now known throughout the world, and who have done much to change the course of civilization in science, of every fresh production in literature, and of the newest invention in the practical arts. The work is well prepared, and has happily ended, and a new course of commercial and industrial studies has been opened up.

It is the desire of the publishers that the work may have been used by the individual, labor-explorers of the world, with the assurance that it will be of great value to them, and that they will find in it a valuable guide to the study of every branch of knowledge.

In preparing the present edition for the press, it has been the aim of the editors to bring down the information to the latest possible date, and to furnish a complete record of every discovery in science, of every fresh production in literature, and of the newest invention in the practical arts, and in every branch of science, and history, and in the progress of political and historical events.

The work has been brought out by the most skillful preliminary labor, and with the most expert sources for carrying it to a successful termination.

None of the original plates have been used, and the entire work is now entirely new, forming in fact a new cyclopaedia, with the same plan and compass of its predecessor, but with a far greater extent of knowledge, and with a far more comprehensive and accurate compilation than can be found in any other work of the kind.

The work is now ready, and will be sold at $100 per volume, and $200 for the entire set.
